

Seasons Of The Mind

From north to south and east to west,
The seasons of the mind are your heavenly guest;
From people, time and places your invited to stay,
The way of God is the time of the day.

From Summer To Autumn and Winter to Spring,
The hot and cold weather is a cool and warm change;
As if the heart of the Lord is the mind of the thing,
As heaven and hell are in a paradise season.

The Summer has its heat and beaches and surf,
The warm days of love above the earth;
With cool drinks and sandwiches, picnics are choice,
The romance of children and a choirs heavenly voice.

Autumn is the time of the year when leaves start to fall,
In orange and golden browns, red, yellow and green all,
The setting is bright for the meeting of lovers,
To lie down on a bed of leaves and kiss and snuggle.

Winter is the cold months of snow and ice,
Where the presence of heat is warm by the fire;
For sinking down from a mountain top to bottom,
Curled up in bed at nights with each other.

Spring is the sign of new life and new growth appears,
In the greenery surrounding the hills and the animals draw near.
With fawn and calf, lamb and kid goat,
Spring is the season of the mind where your head starts to float.

Signed,

The Equator and Hemisphere.
