

Is it a core or task to do?
Isn't more than the word something work to you;
Doesn't it really stem from the heart or the brain,
If it comes from my heart does it make me insane.

Poetry is a passion and way to express,
Full of meaning and life in what's good to address;
It required lots of feeling and means lots of pain,
That what we make out of it worthy of gain.

Is structure and style is open to view,
And needless to say it's best if it's true;
Most try and endure and search for the soul,
But in poetry the answer is to seek it in whole.

God did not give us a will not to endure,
And a mind to find relaxation through poetry is sure;
Poetry's perfection is just what you sight,
What is revealed through its words in the light.

Amazing and beautiful and so real to see,
It is what I might read and what it is to be me;
For poets don't ask but take in the spirit,
That their faith it rewarded but those who knew.

To have persistence in writing is wisdom ideal,
That what I can be written turns out ever real;
For the victory in poetry comes from above,
And is worth all the waiting it it's in the name of love.
