

The right kind of love is the best form it can come,

When love is the greatest the whole earth earns the sum;

So the right kind of love is the strength of the law of truth,

Where black and white rules are kept and life all living proof.

The right kind of love is in the perfect fashion of heaven,

Where beauty preaches beauty and brilliance teaches brilliance;

And you know in your heart that it is really true and right,

For the right kind of love is wording worthy of writing delight.

The right kind of love is the right kind of live for me,

Why it's nice to eat ice-cream when the caramel sauce is free;

And it's better to believe in God than to take advantage of thee,

When the angle of the building has got to be right and you're going out to sea.

The right kind of love is one that is worthy of my God's love,

One that is blessed for service and the work is in your head above;

While the knowledge of intelligence is information to of used,

And the discipline of patience is not something so widely confused.

The right kind of love people performing tasks in a logical pattern,

Whether knitting a garment or weaver a material fabric like satin;

The right kind of love is being loyal and respectful to others,

Because the reason for the gratitude is the season for new lovers.

The right kind of love is maintaining principles of structure,

Wanting the logic of the idea to repeat profit to a luxury;

The right kind of love is tried and tested in the fire of hell.

Worthy of paradise where everything works out almighty well.
