

The irony of the hierarchy is which sex is making the money,

Like the poetry of Parsifal is varied on many different subjects;

And children seem to care on simple things to make life interesting,

As schools are often degraded by universities and different information.

Like the relevance of self actualization is to lead and guide a nation,

Not the kingdom of the commonwealth or rule the world with domination;

For the humble kind of average is not quite as complex as it looks,

When you can read a hundred pages or two hundred different books.

When you lean to start to write a book all on your very own,

You start to understand from readers the message you have sown;

For information overload clutters and clogs the mind and brain,

So sit back with some poetry and relax in enjoyment of the rain.

For with morality and rules and regulations comes legalistic law,

But the freedom of the people gets them in trouble if they don't endure;

So the origin of the source comes from nay different kinds of fields,

And you don't have to be dominating to understand the different yields.

It's an education idea to think and read or write for someone, when it's something that you know about of nothing to no-one;

and when you've really read a lot there's always something to write,

for the delight is in the reading when you sit down or the delight.

Now night and day has come and gone and the years just pass away,

As you know full well from writing information for others to know and tell;

For I can't remember everything I write completely all at once,

But the time for each page I suffer I remember I'm not the dunce.

Signed,

Dance with your hands