

I must write this being right and be right doing wrong,

As I write it right along so I can be right from write and long;

Because from left to right as you write along you always right it write,

And when you're always being right and writing wrong you have to do it right.

So if you're inclined to be right all the time you're only doing wrong,

For when you write with money to write you're right being long;

And if you're right to belong write along these lines from left to right,

For when you're left and right it right you write from right to wrong.

So always write it being right and never from doing wrong,

For when you're sitting doing wrong you're write right for long;

And the money comes as time will tell from righting it all right,

For when you're writing to the write of it, it's right on the light.

Well the right lights very hard to get and when always doing,

The writing is being the right of it and the light where it belongs;

For to be along light is being right and it's wrong to write the light,

In poems and verse and thing of course the years of light are life.

So sitting here being right is sinning, hearing, seeing, doing wrong,

As the answer appears the questions right of being write and written wrong;

Well as I'm doing to write along it's becoming wrong being right,

For all the years as they appear are minutes under the light.

So switch from doing wrong to being right about the years in the light,

For what was write is now right and doing wrong is never write;

Well as you can see it's wrong for me always doing right,

So being right and doing wrong is the right thing in the light.
