

I took a breath, of a bit of air, now that is a good memory,

My memory is a good memory and it's good to remember memory;

Memories come and go and still it all amounts and adds up the same,

For what you commit to memory is just whether you can remember again.

.

A good memory is a good thing to remember often all the time,

And it's not quite as simple and easy committing it all to rhyme;

For writing really depends a lot on just how much you've read,

That what you tend to remember is just what comes into your head.

.

A good memory is nice to have and a pleasant thought of mind,

For its very beneficial to remember everything at any point in time;

And the most important thing to know is that memories are a bit kind,

For you like me must have one and just remember them one and a time.

.

I think of thoughts quite often and put them down on paper to see,

And if I remember my memory that's really just being me;

A good memory is good to have because that means mighty marks,

And that's a trigger that inclines sweet memories, shining rightly sparks.

.

A good memory remembers things cost money, that you have to make,

And work at it indifferently so that there is peace like of a lake,

And I put it down on paper so that I will never just forget,

Because that reminds my memory of all the good that I can get.

.

Well sometimes a good memory is pleasant because we forgive,

When someone else sins against us and we all really want to live;

For memory becomes a memory when you live on and you die,

Going back to God to a place in heaven as in a grave you lie.

.

Signed,

Give me space.