

Of all the things that god does give,
It is his grace what's best that I might live;
His love and freedom are so very good,
But the power of grace is what all should.

All would be nothing without his grace,
That shines in wonder from his heavenly face;
The thought that one might slip and come through again,
As all that I can do is write from a pen.

Life's not funny nor to be taken lightly,
For it is the greatest gift through grace so rightly;
So think about what this shall amount to,
If you can imagine God to know and to come true.

Great is the grace that he gives to all,
As this earth turns round as a spinning ball;
I need not fall or rely on me,
For he has the key of grace to be.
