

Lost in a world all along and secluded,
The vision of love for me is eluded;
Where can I find love on this warm slumbers day,
I'll go where life leads me if the lord shows the way.

In solitude and beauty of the mighty love of God,
Leading me and guiding me to a place high above;
Can I ever find it or catch the true love,
Of its magic and bliss with no push and shove.

The meaningful part is the knowledge that soon,
Christ will return and I'll be over the moon;
But in the mean time the treasure and pleasure I seek,
Is twisted and twirled in a heartache so bleak.

Where can I find love as if it all has depended,
On those paths that I've crossed and people I've befriended;
Just where about is that love just for me,
A girl who grew into a woman that I'm destined to be.

Where can I find love, no not just any simple kind,
But a true love with passion to fill up my mind;
With the hope and the joy of all I can do,
Of what God had intended to be fulfilled and come true.

Where can I find love so hard to see clearly,
Everything so big in this world I love dearly;
But humble I will to the truth in this time,
The love that has lost me in these words and this rhyme.

Signed,

Out there waiting
