

I know you love me down deep inside,
To take hold of my love and be my bride;
For cherishing and to love forever and ever,
Where two lonely hearts beat perfectly right.

You are my sweetheart my eternal treasure,
Whose love is beyond comparison and infinite pleasure;
So lovely to look upon and gaze into your eyes,
For your heart is so perfect and love is so nice.

And I long for your companionship and friendly charm,
That you might become me and not come to any harm;
For deep in my soul I know I deserve you,
Who you are to me more glorious than anything I knew.

For myself you must come and stay in my life,
Your perfect complexion and a self reflecting wife;
When in the loneliness, two hearts find meaning,
The purpose and reason for the season of scenery.

And when the time comes that the two intertwine,
The love that we make is all perfectly divine;
Just to hold your hand is enough to fill my heart,
With all of the joy and beauty of your love so smart.

Because I have a hope that is greater than me,
That I might be inclined to you instead to just see;
Being a bit greater than me and complimenting the same,
That we might share love as loves live thy name.

Signed,

For Yourself