

Well now what I've read I form my opinion,
Of what's best or worst and what I'll open up on;
There must be a way of making this pay,
Or all that I've done has just gone by the way.

Opinions you see are open for viewing,
Like grass grows all day and is always renewing;
Some say what's wrong but bend to agree,
And others are downright rude, when they don't seem to see.

Opinions are funny when it all boils down,
Like someone on opium just going to town;
But worry not why for they'll form anyway,
And people will let them to escape the judgement day.

So what have they used to establish or cause,
When someone degrades you in some rhyme or clause;
Options you see throw light on the subject,
And open our minds to what's right or objective.
