

The fish in the restaurant might be a nice dish for a chef,

If you can find it on a website don't be hungry, dumb and deaf;

For the internet will link you to nearly any website you desire,

But the intelligence is in eating the food you must acquire.

.

Now the decisions that you make are always money in the bank,

And you can send and transfer money or pay bills to people just to thank;

A choir will sing like angels and people do the dishes all day long,

Like there's a cobweb in a kitchen, so the spider dies deciding it's wrong.

.

So there's many kinds of websites just look out forth to see,

That the picture on the screen means the ocean sea scene to me;

Though I cant really imagine spending everything on it just to let it get,

As websites can be tragic and magic to those who they want to let.

.

Now each website is only one in a billion and it's hard to find me here,

Unless you google who you want or the name you have on mind;

Or the traffic is directed to a specific area in the flow and topic you want to find,

For poetry like mine it is a medieval picture portrayed with topical points.

.

Or book yourself a holiday with a flight to where the tropical mind joints,

As there are many kinds of places to see on the internet and everywhere;

Or if you can afford it you can buy a house to live, find it on the internet,

To share with someone else in a room to use with a roof overhead.

.

It's a bit selfish and impossible to keep it all only to yourself,

So share a website with others and it will return itself;

For when you're smart enough to know enough about it all,

You've probably got a reason for someone else on the internet to call.

.

Signed,

A Core Component.