

I know I'm under control and it's all not others self control,

From doctors there's directions or that managers must patrol;

And I am a poet who does what he's told to write,

Who wants you to read self control and it all be right.

Journalists and authors get away it seems with nearly everything,

Because they're always in the right to write the wrong of anything;

But with self control you must consider the facts and figures,

Because the truth of the matter is money controls the bigger.

So is self control is a humble little thing to do, so as to not feel small,

So that you know your in control yourself with the size of the ball,

I must admit I like to do whatever pleases me and I want to do,

And that means self control is whether completely different to you.

I did it my way, so as the song goes, New York, New York,

For my self control makes me money but leads me to a fork;

For if I got it wrong myself and could do it again perfectly right,

So I could be happy in the complete forgiveness of sin I write.

So go your own merry way if that is the way you walk,

And pick up the phone or find someone you can talk,

For with self control you must learn it by something that you read,

That you can walk out and go your own way and turn and lead.

For people make decisions and most of the time get them right,

But it is an individual thing that comes back to self control at night;

So if you have the whole day left to your own devices,

Then with self control it's smart to listen to what others advice is.
