

I thought for a while about what I would write in thinking,

And sat down with a pen and ink and felt a bit like drinking;

But the thing that you think is not always the thing you think,

For people have a brain and a mind for the money to think of a thing.

It depends how much and how clear the price is for thinking,

For it's nice to be kind but you must mean money to be linking;

You can marry the ideas that the money will buy to pay for the thing,

But at the end of the day it is the price and cost to profit a think.

For thinking is for people who have ideas how to fix things,

Or hope to solve their problems in how to read and write logical thoughts;

So if you are thinking you are smart enough you're clever enough to be,

But probably not as intelligent as someone who studies stupidity.

Thinking about yourself and dwelling on the wrong are silly negatives,

Is not like thinking to become rich with good and endless possibilities;

Or to always be thinking positively will get you where you're going,

But definitely won't mean everything you think money you will buy.

Thinking is the right idea of what you want to develop intellectual thoughts,

But dwelling on all you're got is not thinking about fitness or sport;

So thinking along the lines of what I can have and what to do next,

Might be better diversifying to some kind of meditational text.

For thinking you are better than someone and wanting to be the best,

Is just another way to challenge you're limitation rising for the test;

So now thinking of me and you, could there be a love that's never odd,

For the highest kind of thinking is not thinking of yourself but God.

Stronger or smarter than me.
