

I'm at home I know where I am, it's a place that is safe and sound,

It's a beautiful place in the world, to have your own little piece of ground;

It's peaceful and it's tranquil and it's a heavenly peace of mind,

And this place of mine is where I call home and to me it's really mine.

Â

I'm at home, I know where I am, I'm right here writing at home where I am,

I'm waiting here for something better, but this is the best that I can,

There is a beauty in the rest of the world and at home I know I might,

I knew a better place in heaven above and came down to shine the light.

Â

But I'm at home, here on earth and love this place where I live,

It is better to spend some time on this and get it all then to give,

I know where I am and it is good like this, till I step outside,

Then where the world takes me I can't compare to home as I ride.

Â

I'm at home, I know where I am and you might want to be,

You might want to visit me or ask me if you can come and see;

And you my love, have your own home you love and I wonder if we,

Can finally settle down together and learn enough to marry and be.

Â

So for you my love I will try and will try to come out of me shell,

My home where m safe and certain to be, a place where all is well,

And I'll come looking for you and find where you are to take your hand,

Then I'll love you and cherish you and give you this, my wondrous land.

Â

I'm at home, I know where I am, I know it well, I know I love,

And one day I'm going to another place my home up above,

From the land of hell to heaven on earth with pen in hand,Â

And this is Australia a place in the world that is a mighty land.

Â

Signed,

Â

A grand land
